

NAVIGANT CONSULTING

Headquarters
Relocation
Chicago, IL

Size

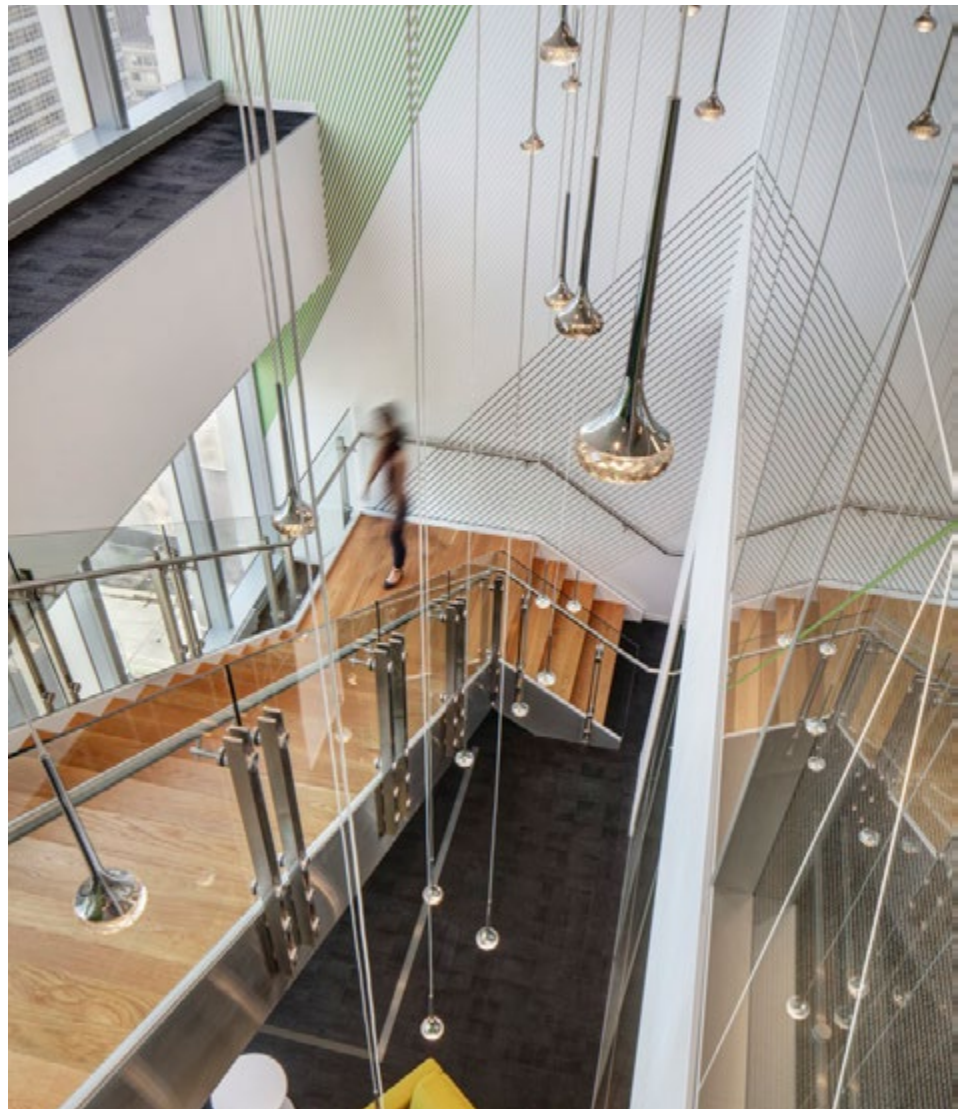

110,000 square feet

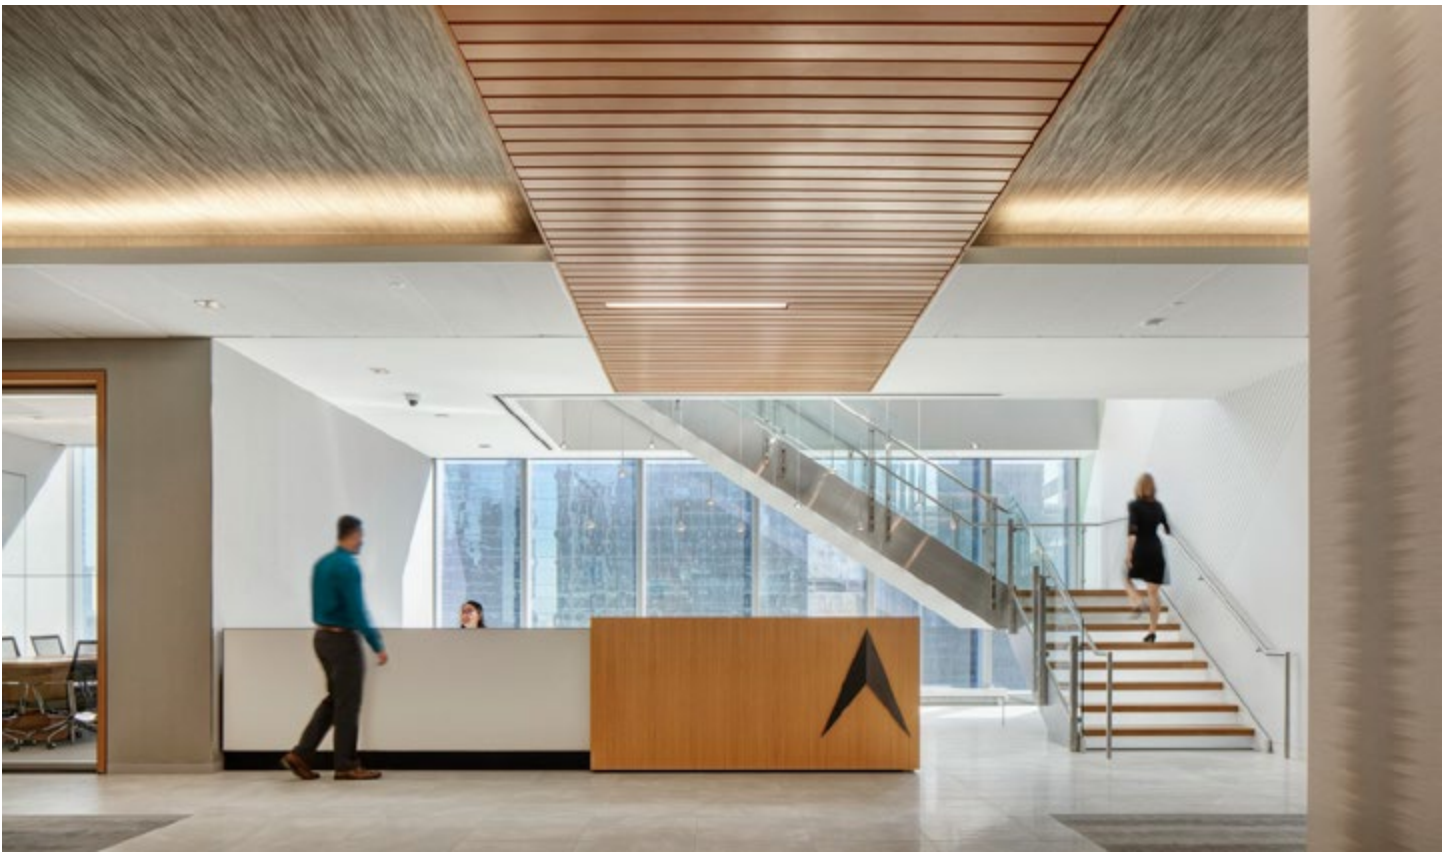

Project Highlights

Open office organization supports smaller team neighborhoods and future flexibility; Architectural features such as wood framing and high contrast bands used for wayfinding purposes; Changeable graphics; Conference center connected to executive suite

Services Provided

Full service interior architecture and design; Experiential graphic design

Navigant Consulting engaged IA on the relocation of its headquarters in downtown Chicago. The new space is light, inviting, and professional, reflecting the company's values of respect, integrity, and innovation.

A consistent design aesthetic is carried from the reception to the general work area, creating a cohesive space united by an interconnecting staircase. The open office is divided into neighborhoods, providing an adaptable work environment that fosters productivity, while also accommodating future growth. For instance, consistent desk sizes allow for easy restacking of departments should the need arise, while changeable graphics can be customized to suit different needs.

Large conference rooms can all be opened to adjacent residential-like seating areas, creating a more relaxed and collaborative atmosphere. Cafes are located on both floors, so that all have access to refreshments and alternate work settings. Overall, the new workspace encourages idea sharing, choice, and comfort.